

Professor Jan Żelazo has been teaching and conducting research at the Warsaw University of Life Sciences–SGGW (www.sggw.pl), Department of Water Engineering in the Faculty for Civil and Environmental Engineering. He teaches river engineering, river restoration, environmental impact assessment, planning of small retention measures, flood protection. His research activity has been in river hydraulics, sediment transport, water management and environmental protection. He has been the recipient of several research grants and fellowships. The author of few books and monographs and over 150 papers. Professor Jan Żelazo has received several honours and awards in recognition of his achievements.

More information (see here)